Officials concerned with materials to be used in filling "death" hole

—by JERRY WHITTLE

"We'll have a worse hazard than we already have," said Hancock County Civil Defense Director Bob Boudin. The official was responding to ECHO questions concerning the apparent readiness of the Corp of Engineers to start the fill in of the dangerous hole off the beach in front of Gulfside Assembly where six persons drowned earlier this summer.

Boudin stated, "I plan to go before the Board of Supervisors Monday and inform them of the situation. It will then be up to them to make the final decision."

The Corp told the ECHO on Wednesday that they were concerned about the type of material to be pumped from Bayou Caddy to the area near Gulfside, believing it would serve only as a temporary solution to the problem.

John Jones, a Corp official, said, "We, and the Environmental Protection Agency, had reservations about the type of material to be pumped into the hole and beach area. We contacted the state and informed them of our thoughts, but told them that we would use the material if they wished. They said please do. So we are going ahead and use the material."

When asked what objects there were to the material from Bayou Caddy, Jones said the sand was very fine material and not good solid sand. Concerning the longevity of the material, Jones said it would most likely not last due to the wave action. He added the fine material might also create a "slopy" bottom.

Jones said the $612,479.85 low bid contract was awarded to T.L. James Co. of Ruston, La. and included work at Wolf, Jourdan and East Pearl Rivers in addition to the Bayou Caddy project. James is presently working on the Jourdan River and will move to the Wolf River shortly. They will then move their equipment to Bayou Caddy in approximately two weeks.

The Corps assistance in filling the hole near Gulfside was not a part of the Bayou Caddy project, but is being done as a service to the community, according to Corps officials.

Boudin said he didn't think the material the Corps will use to fill the hole "will last six months". Adding, "What they are putting in there will be like quicksand. I won't have any trouble finding 'em then (referring to drowning victims)."

Boudin said he is still trying to locate a private firm to fill the hole. When asked what type material he felt should be used to solve the situation, Boudin said the sand that is around the hole could be used to fill in and eliminate the problem.

Six persons from New Orleans were the latest victims to drown at the deep hole, several others have also lost their lives in the same area. The CD director again issued a warning to swimmers to stay away from the area so designated by signs near the edge of the hole.

MR&DC releases June building permit data

Building permit data for the month of June has been released from the Mississippi Research and Development Center Gulf Coast Branch in cooperation with city and county building officials in Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties.

The City of Bay St. Louis issued one residential permit for $22,500 and six permits for $16,404 in alterations, additions and repairs.

In Pass Christian, five residential permits were issued for $125,800 and five permits were issued for alterations, additions and repairs for a total of $18,500.

No information was available from the City of Waveland or Hancock County.

June totals for the three counties showed a 42.8 percent increase in the dollar value for the month as compared to the same month in 1976.

For the year, the three counties have an 11.1 percent increase over 1976.

Waveland, Pass get HUD loans

Waveland and Pass Christian were among three Gulf Coast cities which were notified last week that they will receive loans to modernize low rent housing.

The loans were granted by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

HUD officials said Waveland will receive $214,090; Pass Christian $265,110 and the Biloxi Housing Authority $48,295.

Other loans and grants were announced for several cities in Mississippi including $6.4 million to construct a sewer system in Jackson.

Federal grand jury indicts bank director

Milford R. Kelly, former director and accountant of Bank of Piquette, has been indicted this week by a federal grand jury for the mishandling of bank funds, according to news sources.

Kelly, who now resides in Tupelo, pled innocent to the charges, and is free on $100,000 bond awaiting trial before U.S. District Judge Harold Cox.

Former bank president Charles Stewart pled guilty last November to charges of making false entries into bank books to hide an approximate $2.4 million shortage in bank funds.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) was appointed receiver of the bank and is in the process of recovering uncollected debts.

Hancock Bank purchased the remaining assets in 1975 and is now running the Piquette Bank.

Kelly's one count indictment reportedly charges that between Jan. 19, 1970, and Nov. 5, 1974, while he was an officer of the bank, he misapplied funds. The indictment does not specify the amounts involved but only that the sum was in excess of $100.

The Bank of Piquette was declared insolvent in June 1975, and placed into receivership. This action followed the discovery by federal auditors that capital funds had been "wiped out" and depositors' funds "extensively invaded."

It is alleged the former bank president's attorney contends the million dollar shortages occurred because Stewart allowed his friends and business associates to draw on their accounts even when there was no money therein.

Passenger killed

A 37-year-old was killed early Tuesday morning when the tractor-trailer truck in which he was a passenger wrecked near Pass Christian.

According to reports, the dead man was identified as Lloyd Lewis. Officials said he was pinned in the wreckage for a period of time and died as a result of injuries received in the accident.

The wreck occurred about 4:25 a.m. at the north end of Menge Avenue, north of Pass Christian.

Supervisors ok bond sale

A resolution was adopted Monday by the Harrison County Board of Supervisors authorizing the sale of $10 million in industrial revenue bonds to finance a 13-mile rail spur to the Du Pont Company's titanium dioxide plant at Delisle.

Contracts are scheduled to be let in late September or early October and construction is expected to start immediately thereafter.

Breaux to chair Gumbo Festival

Louis Breaux of Nacaise Crossing community has been named chairman of the third annual Gumbo Festival Sept. 30, Oct. 1-2.

Breaux, manager of the Gulf Coast Dairymen's Assn., is president of the Hancock County Farm Bureau and president of the Hancock Fair and Livestock Assn. He also serves on the board of directors and executive committee of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

As chairman of the festival, which last year attracted some 10,000 spectators, Breaux said every effort "to promote Mississippi grown agricultural products and the seafood industry" will be made. Over 1,000 gallons of gumbo were served at the fair last year.

The chairman said he has named 30 additional activity chairpersons, who have committees averaging at least seven persons, "or a total 200 persons," involved in the planning of a week-end of family entertainment.

Breaux said a feature of the festival will again be the usual contests ranging from fiddling to banjo picking to cake baking and candy making.

In addition, there will be baby contests, a Fais do-do dance and championship field events, as well as quilt and gumbo cooking and eating competitions.

A gigantic 150 year old cast iron pot weighing 1,800 pounds and containing the 500 gallons of gumbo anticipated to be served will again be an extra added attraction at the fair. They anticipate serving 1,000 gallons.

Trophies will be awarded all contest winners.

The winner of the Gumbo Festival Queen contest will be eligible to compete in the 1978 Miss Mississippi Pageant in Vicksburg.

The festival idea was born three years ago as a means of initiating some late summer or early fall entertainment in the North Hancock County area and to develop an annual means of additional revenue for the Infant of Prague Church here.

Cartographic information office opens at NSTL

An office providing the public with central access to information on the availability of maps, charts, aerial photographs, space images and other cartographic products and data produced by federal, state and private agencies has been opened in Bay St. Louis, the U.S. Geological Survey announced.

The office at the National Space Technology Laboratories in Bay St. Louis is part of the Geological Survey's National Cartographic Information Center (NCIC), and is an extension of the NCIC office located at the USGS Mid-Continent Mapping Center in Rolla, Mo.

The NCIC was established in 1974 to serve as a central information point where anyone needing cartographic products or data can find out where they are available and how to order or acquire them. The NCIC, headquartered at the USGS National Center, Reston, Va., has a computerized information system on the cartographic products and data held by more than 30 federal agencies as well as by some state and private organizations.

For instance, the NCIC has information on aerial photographs held by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, nautical charts from the U.S. Department of Commerce, and topographic maps of the USGS.

The Bay St. Louis outlet joins NCIC offices at Reston and Rolla, the other USGS mapping centers in Denver, Colo., and Menlo Park, Calif., and cooperating state operated offices in Texas, South Carolina and Arizona, is providing users with access to information on cartographic data. It also has some USGS topographic maps and other Survey products available for over the counter.

Formal opening ceremonies for the office were held Wednesday, Aug. 3.

Larry Borgerding, chief of the Mid-Continent Mapping Center in Rolla, said the NCIC office in Bay St. Louis continues and expands a service previously supplied there by an Applications Assistance Facility of the Interior Department's USGS-managed EROS (Earth Resources Observation Systems) Data Center at Sioux Falls, S.D. The EROS Data Center is the main storage and reproduction facility for space images and data acquired by NASA's Landsat Earth resources survey satellites, Skylab and other NASA spacecraft, as well as aerial photographs acquired by the USGS. The Data Center now has more than six million frames of images and photographs on file.

The EROS Applications Assistance Facility at Bay St. Louis is linked by computer terminal with the EROS Data Center at Sioux Falls facility.

The NCIC office at Bay St. Louis continues this link with the EROS Data Center, but also is linked by computer terminal to the NCIC office in Rolla and with the main NCIC computer and office in Reston as well as indirectly with the other USGS mapping centers. This means the Bay St. Louis office will have access to all the federal, state and local information as it is entered in the NCIC information systems. At present it is estimated that the federal holdings alone consist of more than 1.5 million maps and charts, 24 million aerial and space photographs and 1.5 million geodetic control points.

The EROS Applications Assistance Facility will continue to aid users in learning how to use and interpret space and aircraft images, photographs and data, Borgerding said.

The Bay St. Louis NCIC office was set up mainly to serve users in Mississippi and Louisiana, but Borgerding said it will provide information services to anyone on cartographic products relating to areas anywhere in the United States. The office also will assist agencies with preparation of cartographic data to be included in NCIC's information systems.

Borgerding said the new facility is open to the public from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Fridays. The address is:

National Cartographic Information Center
U.S. Geological Survey
National Space Technology Laboratories
Building 1100
NSTL Station, Miss. 39529
Telephone: 601-688-3544

Borgerding said the manager of the new office is Henry T. Svehlak, a University of Connecticut geology graduate who formerly served as a cartographic officer in the U.S. Air Force, and worked for several industrial corporations in various remote sensing and scientific positions. Svehlak lives with his wife and two children in Piquette, Miss.

Waveland, MIDAS to improve fire protection

The City of Waveland and the Hancock County MIDAS Committee have joined forces to equip the new Waveland fire station with a pumper. According to Mayor John Longo, the new equipment could mean as much as a 50 percent reduction in fire insurance for Waveland residents. Purchasing the new pumper, at a cost of about $49,000, is the final phase of a Waveland fire protection improvement program. Using local funds and the labor of the volunteer fire department, Waveland has already built a new fire station and is now completing interior work. When fully equipped, the station will provide fire protection to the areas of Waveland north of the L&N tracks; also, the new station will be available to provide help to Clermont Harbor and Lakeshore as the need arises.

Mayor Longo has requested the assistance Hancock County MIDAS Committee in locating funding sources and in putting together the necessary grant package.

The MIDAS Committee was established last September by Governor Cliff Finch. Through this committee, the Governor has pledged Hancock County the full cooperation of his office and of a number of state agencies to speed up local development efforts.

"Waveland deeply appreciates the assistance of the MIDAS Committee," said Mayor Longo. "This is a chance for us to work together to improve fire protection, to provide tremendous savings in fire insurance to Waveland residents, and to provide several jobs with a full-time fire department."

Historical Society met

The Board of Directors of the Hancock County Historical Society met Monday, Aug. 8th and decided to elect a chairperson for the Louis King of France bronze sculpture to be erected by Richard Barthe. Also discussed at the meeting was a letter from James Steven, Mississippi historian, who wrote the society that it might be that Lt. L.M. Jones was buried in Turtleskin Cemetery. A reenactment of the burial service was held 111 years ago in Franklin, Tenn. Two houses have been documented as having historic value in the current project of the society. Anyone knowing of a house 100 years old or older is asked to contact Max Bernis or Mrs. G. Carter of the society.

Demolish or preserve?

FROM: HISTORIC SURVEY COMMITTEE
HANCOCK COUNTY HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The demolished frame cottage which served a triple purpose of classroom, dining room and kitchen. This was the first building in America and built in Shieldsborough (Bay St. Louis) January 6, 1855, for three sisters of the St. Joseph of Bourg order. After a terrifying and tiring voyage, they arrived to install their new mission which was the first foundation installed by Bishop Van de Balde.

The dynamic pace of change today needs to be considered, somehow we need to give a sense of time and place to whole scene of our American heritage, and the uprooting, nervous "progress."

The question is not whether there will or will not be change and progress but what form it will take. Shall we tear down the old and build all new, or shall we consciously search out and preserve the best of the old while skillfully inserting the new? Each person of Bay St. Louis and each building and site can be its own visual history book, recording for all to see where it has come from and where it is going. But even more important, when the values of preservation are fully understood and injected into the community, they can become a vital force in the local economy and guide for future progress.

New and imaginative efforts must be initiated in Bay St.

Louis. It must be recognized that the past can play a part in the growth and prosperity of the community. The Historic Sites Survey Committee is now in the progress of surveying the building of Bay St. Louis to suggest a plan for preservation and a creation of a historic district. Persons who have buildings 50 years and older may register their buildings for the records of this survey. You may write Hancock County Historical Society, Historic Survey Committee, P.O. Box 1340, Bay St. Louis, Ms. 39520 or phone 467-3907 for registration.

Bay St. Louis Little League

Banquet honors players, coaches

by Randy Lankford
After months of practice, work and traveling to games Bay St. Louis little leaguers and their coaches got together for the last time this season Tuesday for the presentation of the trophies the young athletes have earned over the season. The awards banquet marked the end of the season for the 9, 10, 11 and 12-year-olds.

President Don Murray presented over the presentation of awards to the coaches and players. During the election of officials for the coming year, Murray was named to his second term as president.

Other officials elected at the banquet were: Player agent, Woody Pearce; Secretary, Nolene Breland; Vice-President, Curtis Hayward;
and treasurer, John Rosetti.

Coaches and managers of every team were presented plaques for their services during the season. This year's league officials were also presented with a gift for their help during the season.

The players and coaches of the 11 and 12-year-old All-Stars were presented next and each received trophies to mark their accomplishments.

The 11 and 12-year-old Bay St. Louis champions, Mar-chanta Bank, were presented with their trophies along with the rotating championship trophy, which was accepted by coach Ronnie Artigues.

The President's trophy, signifying sportsmanship and fair play, was presented to Rowe Crowder and Mike Barnes. This year marked the first presentation of the President's Trophy.

The pitcher and hitter of the year were next presented their trophies with pitching honors going to Shawn Henderson and the batting title going to Scott Adams.

The Bay St. Louis 9 and 10-year-old All-Stars, winners of the state championship, were presented trophies next for their performance in the playoffs.

The final presentation of the evening went to Murray for his work as president of the organization this year.
Apologies to all the coaches, managers and players that stayed after Tuesday's banquet for a picture. Due to an error by the photographer
this picture is not printable.

Hancock still taking players

Hancock North Central is still accepting players for this year's football team. Coach Irvin Favre said Wednesday that anyone interested in playing on the team should come to the school with their birth certificate.

The team will continue two-a-day practices with the morning session at 8:30 and the afternoon practice at 4 p.m. Favre added that he had 40 players at Wednesday morn-ing's session and was looking for more.

PRJC sets practice

The grass has been cut, down rooms are clean and coaches and directors are ready, with or without cool weather, for fall practices at Pearl River Junior College.

Sunday afternoon will mark another school year at Pearl River Junior College as the Wildcat Football team, band, String of Pearls and cheerleaders are scheduled to swarm the campus.

Music, cheers and grunts of hard hitting are the official signals that registration and classwork can not be far behind. Registration is planned for the following week, August 22 and 23.
J. C. Arban, head football coach, said he expected 80 players to report for physicals and the issuing of gear at 2:00 p.m. Sunday. Actual practice is slated for Monday morning at 10:00 a.m.

Patten, band director, is expecting 48 band members, six flag and 17 String of Pearl members. According to Patten sixty percent of his group will be freshmen and all but three of the Pearls are first year girls.

Eight cheerleaders are also expected to show Sunday afternoon, according to Ann Morris, sponsor.

By Friday the campus will look even more alive as faculty members from all three campuses will be on hand for the first faculty meeting of the new year. All instructors and supporting staff will meet in the student center at 8:30 a.m.

Regular fall classes will begin at 8:15 a.m. August 24.

ADAMS - The two Gulf Yachting Association teams dominated the series as CINDY STIEFFEL and her crew JUDY MCKINNEY and AMY CHAPMAN won the AREA F CHAMPIONSHIP over second place ELLEN EAGAN of Southern Yacht Club and her crew Gayle Entringer and Mimi Eagan.

The semi-final event for the Women's United States Sailing Championship was sailed in a six race round robin series in Flying Scots at Bay Waveland Yacht Club August 6 and 7.

Cindy Stieffel and her crew will compete in the finals for the Adams Cup on August 28-30 at Little Egg Harbor in Beach Haven, New Jersey. The finals will also be sailed in Flying Scots.

Final scores: Cindy Stieffel, crew Amy Chapman and Judy McKinney, BWYC - 11%; Ellen Eagan, crew Mimi Eagan and Gayle Entringer, SVC - 14%; Margo Oetking, crew Sere Grinnan and Cindy Craig, Rush Creek Yacht Club - 18%; Rosalind Bowen, crew Ginger Butler and Terry Gough, Corinthian Sail Club - 19%; Virginia Meade, crew Susan Meade and Susan Smith, Oklahoma City Boat Club - 29%; Mary Ann Overall, crew Marion Sexton and Sherry Lemons, Windcrest Sailing Club - 32.

Judges for the event were Commodore Arthur Wynne, Mrs. James Arceneaux, Area F Adams Representative, and commodore Joe Alfonso. Harry Chapman served as Race Committee Chairman. Many BWYC members contributed to the success of the regatta in numerous aspects.

Bay-Waveland has entered several fine teams in semi-finals over the years but this is the first time a Bay Waveland team has won the semi-finals and will represent the club, the association and Area F in the Finals. The entire membership shares the pride in this accomplishment because it has been made possible by the fine program of sailing at BWYC, a well-maintained fleet of racing boats, and intense competition among the finest skippers and crews anywhere.

COVERED DISH BUFFET - The Ladies Auxiliary Covered Dish Buffet which was planned for Aug. 13 has been postponed to Saturday, Sept. 10 at 7 p.m.

The Jr. Rondinella Sunfish Championship Regatta was held this weekend at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club. All skippers were 15 years old and younger. A series of 7 races was sailed with each skipper being permitted to drop their worse race.

Craig Colomes won an impressive victory with 4 first and 2 second place finishes for a total of 7 points. Bishop Stieffel was a close second with 3 first and 3 second place finishes for a total of 8% points. Third place ended in an exciting tie between Priscilla Kemp and Betsy Gordon - both netted 19 points.

Mississippi consumer report

Much like the medical liability insurance crisis of a short time ago, the new product liability insurance crisis is sweeping the nation.

Though the problem has not arisen frequently in Mississippi, other sections of the nation are feeling the effects.

The crisis stems from large, questionable awards for damages in product liability cases, the lack of reasonable statutes of limitations in many states, in addition to other factors. Juries are holding manufacturers responsible for products produced years before, making the product a ticking time bomb, awaiting a chance to explode.

Many juries seem to think that if insurance companies pay the verdicts—as is usually the case—then no one is really being hurt. When that is combined with the absence of a reasonable statute of limitations, trouble is the result.

How will it affect the consumer? In the form of higher prices. Manufacturers must include the cost of liability insurance in the price of their products—and that, in turn, is passed on to the consumer.

The Mississippi Economic Council is studying the problem and how it could affect Mississippians. It is a problem the state must face.

Perhaps Mississippians will react in much the same manner as they did with the medical liability insurance crisis. The MEC work in the area may shed light on what should be done to avert another "liability crisis."

The Stennis report

Senator John C. Stennis today questioned David Freeman about his commitment to pursue "a realistic program of area-wide growth and development" as a member of the Tennessee Valley Authority Board of Directors. Freeman has been nominated by President Carter to fill the position on the three-member board which has been vacant for two years.

During a confirmation hearing before the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee, Stennis asked Freeman about a recent statement he made to the effect that the TVA area "should become a model for a low growth, non-energy intensive, post industrial society." Freeman responded that the primary mission of the TVA is to pursue those activities which stimulate economic growth and development. Freeman said that the bottom line for TVA organization is the creation of and pursuit of activities which create jobs.

Stennis said, "Private investment along the Tennessee River area was over $252 million in 1975 alone. This makes a total private industrial investment of $2.8 billion since mid-1965. These industries employ well over 44,000 people." The Mississippi Senator expressed the opinion, "Certainly these people and these investments cannot be abandoned to any 'low-growth, withdrawal policy' but rather, deserve and must have forward looking and constructive policies of growth."

As Chairman of the Senate Public Works Appropriations Subcommittee, Stennis annually conducts hearings on the budget requests of the Tennessee Valley Authority. Stennis said, "This experience has given me a much fuller understanding of the vast operations of TVA." Stennis concluded that a TVA Board membership is "one of the most opportune positions in the nation when energy is so vital for our future. This is no time for a holding action merely on any energy front. Some growth, some expansion and some development is necessary to avoid termination."

Governor Cliff Finch REPORT TO THE PEOPLE

Jackson—In a couple of months most Mississippians will be going to their local courthouse to buy new tags for their cars and trucks.

The cost of those tags will run as high as $200 or more, depending on the size of car and its age.

I submitted to the Legislature last year, and will submit again to the 1978 session, two bills which would reduce the cost of the first car tag in each family to not more than $20.

These two bills failed to gain legislative approval in this year's session; but with your help, I believe that they can become law before you have to buy your car tag in 1978.

One bill would reduce the cost of your first car tag to not more than $20. In other words, if you own a car or pickup truck, you could get the tag for not more than $20. If you own more than one car or truck, you would pay $20 for the tag of your choice and the regular price for any other tag.

I believe that a reduction in the cost of automobile tags is an excellent way for your leaders in state government to show you, the people, that government is concerned about the high cost of living.

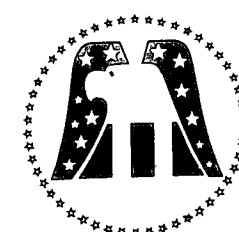

The second bill is designed to make up the difference in revenues between the $20 you would pay for the tag and the price that you are paying now.

The effect of this second bill would be to let out-of-state people help you pay for your car tag. It would increase the oil and gas severance tax so that it would be comparable to other states in the Southeast.

Mississippians do not pay this severance tax; it is paid entirely by people living outside our state. The federal government requires that Mississippi send part of its oil and gas to other states, and the severance tax is the tax placed on that oil and gas; so the tax increase would not cost Mississippians a dime.

It is only fair that those out-of-staters to whom we must send Mississippi oil and gas pay a reasonable tax, because they refuse to even drill for oil or gas in their own states. They claim they are afraid they could not control pollution, but I believe that they are hoarding their oil and gas for the time when ours has run out. I am confident that if we ever had to buy oil and gas from them, they would tax us heavily.

If you agree that these are good programs, then I hope you will ask your legislators to vote for them during the 1978 session, which starts in January.

WORDS OF FREEDOM

We, here in America, hold in our hands the hope of the world, the fate of the coming years; and shame and disgrace will be ours if in our eyes the light of high resolve is dimmed; if we trail in the dust the golden hopes of men.

—Theodore Roosevelt

Whittlin' with Whittle

If you're thinking of getting the kids away from all the sex and violence on the tube, we can offer our recommendation of what not to take them to see at the movies. Namely, "The Bad News Bears in Breaking Training."

A recent viewing of this film left us with mouth wide open at the language and plot of the movie. It carries a PG rating, but we were amazed at the number of kids sent by their parents to witness the "Bears" in action.

Aside from the language, the plot features a baseball team (like a group of older little leaguers) and their big chance to play in the Astro Dome in Houston. First their leader gets rid of the new coach, then leads the team in a big lie to all the parents. One of the team members borrows a friend's van (which his friend "borrowed" from someone else) so the team can drive from California to Houston (with no adults along). The driver is under age and pulls a trick of sticking a cigarette in his mouth to make him look older when the police pull along side for a check. The team rents a room at a motel and one of the boys is off to the store to purchase three "Playboys" for the others to read.

When arriving in Houston, they park in a no parking zone, lie to the police when caught and the hotel they check into features several "ladies of the night."

Words used were not very nice for kids to hear. Such as several G's and bull—

What the movie might teach a youngster is dirty language, how to lie to your parents, what girly magazines read, how to get away with driving a "stolen" van half way across the country with an under aged driver at the wheel, how to outfox the cops and many other things we are sure you don't want your children to learn and surely not from the screen.

We can't say this is a movie for the entire family...certainly not one for the kids.

And we thought we were open minded...

We received a very interesting letter this week from a lady telling of her problems with a stray dog. This adds to the growing problems residents of Hancock County face each day and further points to the need of a program to control stray cats and dogs.

City and county officials should not turn a deaf ear to the dog and cat problem, but should start some action immediately to relieve our citizens. And we should not have to wait until a child is bitten and possibly die from a stray's bite.

The Bay-Waveland Humane Society has worked and worked at this problem and it is hard to believe these dedicated people continue their uphill battle...but they do.

The CB craze is continuing and will for many years to come. Thousands of CB's are on the airways and the number of channels has been increased to try and deal with the growing number of operators. We have had the pleasure of owning a CB and found it very helpful, especially in our line of work.

Many people use the CB to find the 10-20 (location) of "Smokie" (policeman) while traveling on the "Super Slab" (interstate). In fact, many people own a CB for just such a purpose. But not all CB's...they just enjoy "ratchet jawing" (talking).

Folks who do not have a CB, but want to travel above the speed limit have developed a game, which can be very costly and dangerous. The game is called a number of different things, but mainly called "leeching." To leech, you take to the road and after a couple of cars or trucks pass at a high rate of speed (the ones who have CB's), you fall in behind and coast down the road several car lengths behind.

Now don't get us wrong, we are not promoting or endorsing this type of action, just doing a Howard Cosell (telling it like it is).

For sure there are chances in leeching. First, if the guy you are following gets caught, and well he might, you are also in line for a ticket. Also, there's nothing behind you to keep the Smokies from rolling up to throw some "green stamps on you" (ticket).

So even though it is done, you better think twice before leeching...dangerous and costly.

Have you noticed you never hear anyone whistle any more? Seems years ago everyone did. Could it be we were happier in the "good ole days"? Oh sure, you still get the wolf whistles and even whistles in stead of applause, but not to be heard is the good old fashion happy whistle.

Have a nice day...and pucker up!

Letters to the Editor

Bay St. Louis, MS 39520

Dear Editor:

This Fall the Veterans Administration anticipates that approximately 8,500 Mississippi veterans will begin training under the GI Bill Education Program. Many of these trainees are residing in the circulation area served by your widely read newspaper.

The VA needs your help in communicating an important message to these veterans. Although I am convinced the vast majority of the Vietnam Era veterans who have thus far trained under the current GI Bill have done so in an exemplary fashion that will benefit Mississippi for years to come, there have been enough exceptions to create a real education overpayment problem for the VA. To help overcome this problem, Congress enacted legislation to change the way VA pays GI Bill allowances.

Last Fall, for example, when veterans registered for school, they received an automatic advance payment covering the first six weeks of school, and their regular monthly checks were pre-paid at the start of each monthly training period.

This year, advance payments will be made only to those students who apply 30 days before registration, and the monthly payments will come after each month of training has been completed. Students will get the same dollar amount as before, and possibly even more, for the VA has recommended and Congress is considering a cost-of-living increase in GI Bill allowances, but the timing of the payments will be different, and veterans should plan their personal finances accordingly.

To smooth the transition to the new payment procedure, we are emphasizing to students and to schools that other forms of VA assistance are available. Among these are VA loans for education that are interest free until nine months after the student leaves school. A Work-Study Program is also available through which VA will pay an additional $825 per semester, and $250 of this will be paid in advance.

More details on the pay changes and other VA assistance programs may be obtained by contacting the VA or Campus Veterans Affairs Counselors in your area. The state-wide toll-free VA number is 1-800-682-5270. In the Jackson area, the number is 989-4873.

I would greatly appreciate your publication of this message as a public service to the many veterans among your readers. Thank you.

Sincerely yours,
J.L. Warnock

Dear Editor:

Out of the storm Monday night (August 1) came to my house a wet, dirty dog, hungry also. I found this dog under my house, Tuesday morning (August 2) at 3:00 a.m. There was nothing I could do until day light, when I called a neighbor who came with her son to get the dog from under my house.

We got the dog into the street thinking it might go home. It wouldn't leave but dug under the gate and went back under the house. Now I have a "stray dog" and my two dogs.

So, believing I had no problem, I tried to find the Bay-Waveland Humane Society phone number to have them take the dog or know of the owner. There was no number to call listed in the phone book. I asked everyone I could if they knew where the dog strayed from or who wanted a dog, give it a good home. I ended up with a big NO!

I fed, cleaned, brushed and got the fleas and ticks from the dog. She is a beautiful reddish white color. I think she could be a Lhasa Apso or Basenji. She doesn't bark. Maybe two years old, has had puppies. She talked to me by wagging her tail. This got to me.

My fear was suppose this dog is ill and bites me and has rabies. My fear overcome, I cleaned this dog up by cutting and brushing the matted hair. She is a good breed of dog but scared.

Has anyone stopped to think the danger we are in with all these strays or unwanted dogs that we have in Shoreline Park here - It's probably bad in other areas also, but I know what dogs and cats we have here.

An outbreak of rabies would get some action immediately. Money or what is needed would be top priority. Let's not just read this rabies bit it is sooner than you believe. Act.

Read all the dog and cat ads in The Times-Picayune for sale. Some one buys these cute little creatures at big prices for one reason or other. These cute little creatures grow up, not cute any more so rather than call the S.P.C.A. because they might be put to sleep, they leave them out on the highways or drop them off somewhere hoping they will find a new home. The death is worse than going to the S.P.C.A. They starve but many are killed along the highways. This is more than cruel. You see the mass of dogs on the road what was alive and Man's best friend. Sickenings isn't it? So why get a dog or cat unless you make it part of your life for many years.

One who knows my first two dauchunds were with me 10 years. I still miss them even tho I have two more. Now I have this beautiful stray, what am I going to do with her. I don't know yet.

Sincerely,
Mrs. L. M. Brew

Washington report

By Trent Lott

Rushing to complete action on President Carter's energy package last week before going home to a skeptical public, the House of Representatives found itself on the verge of a real travesty.

The legislation on the floor was pretty much in its final form - "refined" as the White House "specialists" would say - after being escorted through committees with the speed of wildfire. I think we sacrificed sanity for speed because this package carries onerous new taxing schemes that will hit hardest at the people least able to pay.

Consider this an advance warning that when provisions of this legislation begin to take effect next year you'll be crying out with grief and wondering why on earth it was shoved down your throat.

Clearly this shotgun legislation represents the most significant increase in middle America's tax burden in history. Even with limited "credits" for such things as home insulation, the pitfalls are overwhelming.

Important features include the following:

- a total cost of more than $377 billion over the next eight years, or $5,390 more in taxes and additional costs for every American family. The Wall Street Journal says the ultimate cost may reach half a trillion dollars;

- a minimum 6 to 7 percent per gallon increase in the pump price of gasoline. The increase could have been higher had not the House rejected an Administration-proposed new 5-cent per gallon tax;

- an anticipated increase in the cost of imported oil to $57.8 billion, or $825 for the average family.

- new taxes on natural gas amounting to $44.2 billion per year, or more than $31 per family, and new federal regulations on prices and in-state natural gas supplies;

- taxes estimated at $56.1 billion on crude oil and boiler fuel, or $201 per family;

- a potential tripling of home heating and cooling bills as a result of forcing utility companies to convert from natural gas and fuel oil to coal-powered generation.

Like the Wall Street Journal said, it is possible to quibble with some of these numbers. But there can be no doubt this package will substantially increase costs to the public while creating little incentive for the exploration and development of additional oil and gas reserves.

I've mentioned some of the obvious elements of the package. But there are others which are less noticeable and even more ridiculous in the proposed package sent to the floor. One required the Department of Transportation to use federal money to study the bicycle as an alternate means of transportation

MISSISSIPPI'S NATIVE ORCHIDS

Mississippians who take to the woods in the rural areas of the state have the privilege of viewing between one and two dozen varieties of native orchids - provided they have a sharp, curious eye and are in the right place at the right time.

But unfortunately most Mississippi folks live a lifetime in this rich botanical showplace without ever knowingly viewing an orchid except in a floral shop or greenhouse.

Dr. Clair A. Brown, author of WILDFLOWERS OF LOUISIANA (and adjoining states) pictures and describes the characteristics and habitats of 16 orchid varieties in that state, all of which also occur in similar habitats in Mississippi.

Over the past five and a half years the and another would okay "van pooling" federal employees to and from work.

The central idea is that conservation can be forced through higher, federally-regulated prices, a theory that has been proven false. Why can't the federal government let private enterprise run its own business?

None of the figures mentioned here take inflation into consideration, but the national Chamber of Commerce estimates the inflationary impact at $98 billion over the next eight years, or $1,400 for the average family.

All of the information developed by The Heritage Foundation, the Democratic Study Group, the House Republican Conference and other groups points to an expensive program. Americans are on the verge of finding out just how expensive and more than likely we won't like what we see.

AG affairs

writer of this article has found and photographed more than 500 species of Mississippi wildflowers to find the orchid family is the most elusive group due to their unique choices of places to grow and bloom. Most thrive in wet and boggy sites of one sort or another from the coastal marshes to the hills adjoining Tennessee.

Probably the most beautiful and populous, among the rare ones, is the Yellow Fringed Orchid which you may find blooming from July through September in certain boggy, pineland sites, primarily in the southern half of the state. Outside of Mississippi, however, this rare plant can be found at various elevations of the Great Smokey Mountains far removed from the pine bogs of this state. Obviously a common denominator for this plant's presence is a moist soil, regardless of elevation.

Collins says USM will be better team this year

University of Southern Mississippi Coach Bobby Collins, heading into his third year as boss of the Golden Eagles, is making no predictions about the outcome of the 1977 campaign. But he'll tell you quickly that "we'll be a better football team this time around."

"Our players made up their minds in the spring to get better as a team and their determined and dedicated efforts paid off," Collins said. "The coaching staff was greatly impressed by the efforts shown in the spring, especially our seniors whose attitude and hard work provided a tremendous incentive for our younger players."

In '75, Collins' first year at the helm, senior quarterback Jeff Bower, playing his third year as a starter, took the Eagles to a 7-4 finish. Last year, with an inexperienced but determined Kenny Alderman at quarterback and some other green youngsters at key positions on defense, the Eagles dipped to 2-9. The wins came in the final two games after Southern came so close in the previous outings. After losing by three points to Louisiana Tech, both in the waning moments of the game, the Eagles whipped a tough Memphis State club 14-12 and then tagged on a 21-0 triumph over Texas-Arlington.

Jeff Hammond, who'll be a junior this year, was the quarterback in the two victories after Alderman was the victim of an injury in the Tech tussle.

Collins believes the presence of both Hammond and Alderman for '77 could "make the quarterback position one of our stronger ones." "They have helped each other a lot; we know them better and they know us and the offense a lot better," the coach said.

The presence of running ace Ben "Go-Go" Garry and a big, solid offensive front, will help take the pressure off the signal callers. The 6-1, 201-pound Garry, who topped the 100-yard mark in eight of 11 games last year, needs but an even 100 to become USM's leading runner in history. His 1,236 total for '76 set a one-season school record. He ranks sixth in the nation among running backs returning for '77.

Senior fullback David Hosemann, who enjoyed his best spring practice ever and capped it by racing for nearly 200 yards in the spring game, and a stable of promising younger runners, make the ground attack look strong. Red-shirt sophomores Mike Beal at tailback and Willie Corner at fullback and bonafide soph Calvin Jones at fullback, will challenge strongly for playing time.

The aforementioned offensive front is spearheaded by another All-America hopeful, 6-5, 276-pound tackle Eric "Big E" Smith. Senior Amos Fowler, shifted from starting left tackle to starting right guard alongside the mammoth Smith, has also received pre-season all-star recognition. A pair of 240-pound juniors, Terry Brown at Guard and 6-5 Randy Butler, made Fowler's switch feasible. Both lettered a year ago and both made impressive progress in the spring. Senior Bill Warner, seeking a fourth letter at center, will complete the starting interior.

The tight end slot still belongs to senior John Pitts if spring knee surgery was successful. Junior Larry Harrington, seeking a second letter, and promising sophomores Melvin Silas and Tom Jordan, will challenge. Split end John Cannon, a junior, and flanker Chuck Carr Brown, a sophomore, return as starting wideouts, and will get keen competition from sophomore Greg Graham and junior college graduate Robert Williams, among others.

The defensive secondary will again be young, following the graduation of cornerman Carl Allen, Don Law and Malachi Henry, but Collins can boast of a lot of experience among his starting forwards and linebackers.

All-star hopefuls Bobby Smith at end and Stoney Parker at tackle, last year's leaders in defensive "big plays," and Reggie Odom will be seeking a fourth letter at the other terminal post. Sophomore J. J. Stewart, probably the most sought-after prep lineman in Mississippi a couple of years ago, or senior Alan McCollough will be at the other tackle slot. Three-year letterman-Bishop Knox will back up Parker. Junior Freeman Horton and sophomore Clump Taylor, last year's leading tacklers, are the first team linebackers.

and will be backed up by another tough pair, Clemon Ector and Ricky Allen. Ector owns three letters and Allen a pair. Soph Mike McKinzie is another strong challenger.

In an effort to bolster the secondary, junior Terry Daniels, the most experienced among the backs, was shifted from safety, where he was a starter last year, to cornerback in the spring.

Junior Mike Crenshaw, a part-time starter at vandal (monsterman) in '76, will battle red-shirt soph David Odom for that slot.

The other corner spot will be manned by junior Emanuel Killingsworth if he can overcome leg worries. Junior Wade Lynch, who lettered as a reserve vandal last year, will challenge.

Junior Randy McDonald and junior college graduate Tommy Trahan will continue their battle for the starting safety job up until game time.

Junior Mike Wright, who averaged 42.8 on 88 kicks last year, has a hold on the punter's job but will be strongly challenged in the placekicking department by junior college grad Randy Boyette and sophomore Mark Barhanovich.

Collins hopes all of the placekickers get a stronger workout. The Eagles averaged only 13 points per game a year ago and how much they can improve on that statistic is a vital key to the USM season.

The Eagles open the campaign Sept. 3 in a night game against Troy State at neutral Crampton Bowl in following Saturday night Montgomery, Ala. They'll (Sept. 10) against Florida play their home opener the State.

Salt-water fishing has been pretty good this past week. There were some specks caught just about everywhere, but not as many as there should be. There are plenty jackfish around, there are also a few spanish mackerel cruising around in our waters. The rains may have helped the fresh-water fishing for a while but not for long. Fresh-water fishing should be at its best early in the morning before the sun gets too high, and in the evenings before the sun goes down.

The jackfish isn't thought much of as far as eating is concerned, but pound for pound they are one of the fightingest fish there is. During the summer, jacks can be found just about everywhere along the coast just waiting to test your tackle and to put an ache in your back.

One of the ugliest, most maligned and certainly one of the most underrated of all salt-water fish has to be the stingray. The first two repugnancies against the stingray are not without worthy cause, but the last one is completely without warrant. The stingray isn't even considered a game fish, at least not by my knowledge, but in my opinion a large one can put up a tussle equal to any gamefish of comparable size.

The spanish mackerel is another coastal gamefish that has suffered in recent years due to their exploitation by gill netters.

The Waveland Jaycees will be holding their 5th annual kids fishing rodeo this Saturday at the Garfield Lader Memorial Pier. Kids ages 6 to 16 will be eligible to fish in the rodeo. There will be two categories, one for the kids that will fish off the pier and one for those that will fish elsewhere. The rodeo will run from 6 a.m. to 4 p.m. Awards will be handed out at 4:30. Food, drinks and bait will be available.

KILN: The river is looking real good. There have been a lot of bluegills caught. There have been some reds and specks caught in the river. Most people are scared to go to the marshes because of the weather. Bobby Ladner and some friends caught 25-30 bluegills, 15-20 green-trout (bass) and some catfish, they were using live minnows, crickets and worms. Stevie Haas caught about 25 nice-size bluegills using live shrimp. We have live minnows, shrimp, crickets and worms. We also have various other fishing equipment. We open at 5 a.m. and close at 6 p.m. (Andy Ladner, Andy's Bait Shop, at Kiln Supermarket.)

PEARLINGTON: We had a pretty good weekend. I've seen more salt-water fish than fresh. The water is still pretty everywhere, but the water is still rather hot despite the rain.

Bass fishing has been fair, most bass are being caught on plastic worms and beetle spins. The tide is now low real late in the afternoon. The best fishing has been for bream on a flyrod, one man really slaughtered the bluegills using a yellow popping bug on a flyrod. The bream fishing is good in both the river and the bayous. There hasn't been a whole lot of crappie caught.

We open at 5 a.m. on weekends and at sunrise on weekdays, we are closed on Tuesdays. We also have some rental skiffs and motors. (Roy Baxter, Pearl River Marina.)

coming from around Polecat Bend and Little Grassy. Mr. Lee came in with a box full of specks. The tide has been falling thru the day and the winds have been good. The fishing should be better by the weekend if the weather stays the same. We have live and dead bait, ice, rental skiffs and various supplies for the fishing. We open at 5 a.m. every morning. (Mrs. Toxie Hall, LaFrances Fishing Camp.)

JOE'S BAYOU: People are still catching a lot of fish. But it was kind of slow over the weekend. The rain hasn't hurt the water any. There are some redfish still being caught. Dr. Austin and his wife made a real nice catch of specks, they had around 34 dozs., all total. The weather should be making a change soon and the water should be cooling off so the fishing should be getting better. We open at 5 a.m. We have rental skiffs and plenty of live shrimp. (Mrs. Allie Cospelich, Joe's Bayou Marina.)

Until next week: Catch fish, but keep cool too if you can.

The Cactus Flower blooms in Slidell

By JAKE JACOB

We were packed ready to leave on vacation Saturday when Joe Minacapelli called to remind us his latest production, Cactus Flower, was waiting in the wings ready to tromp across the footlights that night.

With a mind on some arrangements, all to function on split second timing, to accommodate two on a rare trip to inner Mongolia, far behind the Iron Curtain, we hesitated.

Aware of the necessity to tackle and culinary arts, at least one more time, before departure the staff section, always quick on their decision, lay about our head and shoulders with bound sticks in a most ferocious manner claiming that to leave without sampling Minacapelli's prime roast beef, lasagne, baked chicken, stuffed eggplant, broccoli-cream with mushrooms, Irish baked potatoes, Italian Bean salad, salad du jour, dessert, a salad du jour, dessert, a selection of beverages - at least one more time - was out of the question.

Our minds reached a snappy agreement and, smiling through the lumps, we repaired to Minacapelli's Cabaret Theatre on Cousin Street, which (as the regulars know) serves dinner from 6:30 p.m. with show time at 8:30 p.m. Reservations expected in advance at (505) 643-9671.

The place to Petricoploski, with connections for Restlovitch and Krunstadd, came and left, and the camels waiting for the final leg of the journey to the Mongolian town of Yogurtski remained double-parked as, without a care for time, we chuckled, giggled, and applauded our way through the Cactus Flower.

Directed by Richie Martin, and running at weekends through August and as far as Sept. 3, the production stars Marcia Kavanaugh of WDSU Television, New Orleans, portraying the role of Miss Dickinson - the dentist's nurse. Miss Kavanaugh, in the idiom of the theatre, first appears Act 1, Scene II.

From a strong start in establishing her character, she grows in stature to dominate the production, obviously growing more secure both in role and confidence until, by the beginning of the third act, her portrayal is worthy of a standing ovation.

The second lead, the character of Dr. Julian Wilson, the dentist, is excellently played by Barry Ogden.

Ogden won his acting spurs with a BA from San Francisco State University and he is a member of the Screen Actor's Guild. During his career he has had speaking roles in several motion pictures and television shows, and is working towards divesting himself of all other activities to become a "full time" actor. He will make it. He is great.

Ogden's mastery of his profession is made immediately obvious when, in his opening lines he immediately transfers his interpretation of "the bachelor dentist" to both the scene and audience.

The production gives Dr. Wilson a large range of situations requiring a diligence of professional application to make such valid assets to the play and, the viewer.

Possessing a "Certificate of Merit" from the Red Cross, in lieu of the more formal diploma, the good doctor is the subject of a flunked suicide, a man who involves his staff in "family affairs" and somebody who triumphs over all - only after his secretary-nurse has concluded her plotting.

Seventeen year old Casey Cotton, as Toni Simmons, brings a little more sincerity to her role than did Goldie Hawn in the television version, and her ambition to appear on stage in the "Big Apple" may well come about should she continue with this level of performance.

Involved in the acquisition of "Mexican Missiles," for a cavorting - through surcullally staid Miss Dickinson, Vance DeGeneres as Igor Sullivan - the boy next door, leaves the ladies spellbound as he appears, and reappears, in scenes apparently designed to show him at his best in draped toveling.

His offer to wear "black tie" to the next suicide attempt he prevents was not accepted by its recipient, and thus, poor Igor, spends much of the play sans formal raiment.

"El Bravo" with flashing eyes, swift moving feet, and snappy lines, is classically handled by Ignatius de Sandro. It is a pity that "nobody likes his wife" as it would appear such a captivating gentleman would have been able to enter the realms of matrimony with one of a dozen suitable electees.

Seemingly supplied with a nerve failing supply of girl friends with crooked teeth, Layton Martens as Harvey Greenfield willingly sets and enters plots, all to be rewarded by free dental sittings for his harem; while Jinx Fowlkes, portraying the irrepressible Mrs. Durant, handles her role with the charm, accumen, and lively humor now expected by her many admirers.

And, finally, in one of the most taxing roles of the show, Toni de Sandro, playing the part of Bottecelli Springtime, a lady of questionable virtue but undoubted worldly experience, would rate an Oscar for Best Supporting Actress.

Minacapelli, with his constant back-to-back stream of successes, has another sure winner, and the Kavanaugh-Ogden billing is one that ought to be repeated.

As we left for our delayed vacation, happy and with the realization that we had been privileged to again witness American comedy at its best, as presented by professionals, we dwelled on such lines as: "How do you like children?" Grilled, medium rare, and "When she learns that we didn't, she is liable to insist that we must, and she will want to come over and watch."

But, as we mounted the camels for Yogurtski, we thought the best last time to any review would be the final words of Miss Dickinson (in speaking to a Swedish Airline stewardess), "The doctor doesn't do that kind of work any more!"

MRDC releases study on counties

A heavy dependence on federal money by south Mississippi workers becomes apparent in a recent study by the Mississippi Research and Development Center.

That dependence underlines the need for diversification of the economy in the 15-county area, as well as the need for developing additional manufacturing payrolls, says Dr. Kenneth C. Wagner, director of the Center.

Counties included in the survey are Jefferson Davis, Covington, Jones, Wayne, Marion, Lamar, Forrest, Perry, Greene, Pearl River, Stone, George, Hancock, Harrison, and Jackson.

Statistics compiled in the report, entitled "Economic Graphics for Southern Mississippi," indicate government employs the majority of workers in Forrest, Stone, George, and Harrison counties.

In addition, either government payrolls or transfer payments (food stamps, welfare, social security, and other government payments) are among the top two sources of income in 14 of the 15 counties.

Transfer payments was the largest source of income in 8 of the counties, accounting for 25 percent of the income in Jefferson Davis County alone. An additional 10 percent of the income in that county is provided by government payrolls.

County Agent's report

WATCH FOR PODWORMS

Soybean growers should watch their crops closely for podworms. Moths will soon lay eggs in soybean fields. After hatching, these worms feed on leaves or blooms and then attack immature soybean pods. Estimates are that one podworm can damage or destroy about 20 pods. An average of one podworm per row can mean a loss of three bushels of soybeans per acre. To avoid this loss, begin control measures with a recommended insecticide when the podworm infestation averages one worm per foot.

HANDLE GASOLINE CAREFULLY

Gasoline can be dangerous if misused. Follow safety precautions when using gasoline in lawn mowers. Gasoline vapors can be ignited by the hot manifold of a mower. Vapors can also travel invisibly along the ground and be ignited by a nearby open flame. Check fuel before starting to mow and fill up then. Avoid refueling a hot mower. Wipe up fuel that spills while you are filling the tank. Never fill the tank while you are smoking or near an open flame. Do not store a mower near heat sources when gas remains in the tank.

WEED CONTROL

Broadleaf weeds in pastures are increasing this summer because of overgrazing. Cypressweed, horsecherry and other broadleaf weeds can be controlled with one application of 2,4-D plus dicamba or dicamba alone. Clipping about two weeks after applying herbicides will help control weeds which survive the herbicide. Dicamba or dicamba mixtures should not be used on perennial clover pastures, as the chemical will damage clover severely.

WHEAT IN SWINE RATIONS

Many swine producers are asking about the possibility of using wheat in swine rations as a substitute for corn. Producers may replace up to 50 percent of the corn with wheat. In finishing rations, it's possible for the producer to save $8 to $10 more per ton, in feed costs, depending on cost of wheat and corn. STORE SEED PROPERLY Seed left over from planting the family garden or seeding the home lawn must be stored properly if you expect to use them next year. Leftover seed stored in cloth or paper containers may lose their viability in less than a year. Store seed in airtight containers in a refrigerator or freezer.

Senior Citizens happenings

BY FRED HORN

We at the Center are gratified by the turn-out, approximately 80 seniors participated in our games on Monday, Aug. 8th from 1:30-3:30 p.m.

The following Seniors who won prizes and the merchants and friends who donated them, are as follows:

Percentages of these counties' total employment made up by these employers range from 8 percent in Harrison County to 50 percent in Jackson County.

Among other findings revealed in the study are:

-The recruitable female labor force is nearly twice as large as the recruitable male labor force. The recruitable labor force includes unemployed, underemployed, and high school graduates entering the labor force.

-One half of the people in the district live in 14 cities with populations over 5,000. In descending order of size, those cities are Biloxi, Gulfport, Hattiesburg, Pascagoula, Laurel, Moss Point, Picayune, Ocean Springs, Columbia, D'Iberville, West Gulfport, Petal, Bay St. Louis, and Long Beach.

-The district is 21 percent black. Harrison County has the largest number of blacks, while Jefferson Davis County has the largest percentage of blacks, with about 50 percent.

The merchants from Bay St. Louis and Waveland have been very generous donating gifts for the Senior Citizens games. All the seniors at The Center thank the merchants who have made our games become a reality. A special thank you to Ronnie Slocum, Manager at the A&P Super Market in Bay St. Louis for donating the ice every month for our refreshments.

The games would not be successful if it wasn't for the unsung workers behind the scenes. Our RSVP volunteers make all our parties happy events. Listed in order are our volunteers for the August games: Baking cakes were Mrs. Esther Cuevas, Julia Liddy, Bernice Rhamee, Eva Ruhr, and Georgiana Dudenhofer. Seniors serving refreshments were: Mrs. George Diebold, Georgiana Dudenhofer, Ethel Domain, and Annie Sulzer. Caller for the games was Rufus Pierce assisted by Hugh Miller and Charles Ladner. After the lot was won by our happy seniors, refreshments consisting of ice tea and cake was served.

ILLNESS

We are sorry to announce that Rev. H. G. Maples is seriously ill and has been hospitalized since July 6th; Mary Brown is at the Miramar Nursing home in Pass Christian. Seniors, you can visit Rev. Maples and Mrs. Mary Brown whenever you can, they would enjoy a visit from their friends and neighbors.

KILN

The Senior Citizens Club held their August birthday dinner and games at the VFW Hall Thursday, Aug. 4th at 12 noon. It was an eventful day. Everyone enjoyed the games and the dinner following the games. The dinner consisted of fried chicken, home cooked beans, potato salad, rolls, home made cakes, and punch. The dinner missed a great meal. The Seniors who prepared and served the dinner are to be congratulated. Jim Hoda, our Recreation Director, fried the chicken and baked the beans. Congratulations Chef Hoda, we heard via the grapevine, that the dinner was delicious. Incidentally, Jim Hoda has many years to go before becoming a senior citizen. Twenty-nine Seniors attended the games and birthday dinner. All the Seniors sang Birthday Greetings to Cordelia Ladner and Mabel Depree who celebrate birthdays in August.

After Necaise is recuperating at home from an operation as is Mary Ida Necaise. We hope both of our Seniors have a speedy recovery.

Monday, Aug. 8th a group of Seniors traveled to Bay St. Louis to attend their monthly games. Mrs. Effie Mazarakis won the door prize there. Hope you enjoy the dinners at the Captain's Table, Waveland Resort Inn, Effie.

PEARLINGTON

The Seniors and friends enjoyed the games held at the Community Center on Tuesday August 8th from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. Approximately 30 people participated in the games, followed by refreshments consisting of homemade cakes, coffee and cold drinks.

Two car loads of seniors from the Bay St. Louis area participated in the games. We thank Mrs. Agnes Inch, Carrie Williams, Ruth Farve, Robine Guggino, Rita Marti, Marie Longo, Hazel Buckley, Louise Monely, and Honorine Hughes for coming to Pearlington.

The Seniors from this area are raffling off a homemade quilt. Anyone interested in donating to this project please call Mrs. Irma Cuevas 533-7945.

Cosmic space book

Pollution, criminal jurisdiction and property rights in outer space, solar energy, space stations and a legal regime for space colonies are areas of research included in a book, "Space Law: Its Challenges and Prospects," written by Dr. Stephen Gorove of the Ole Miss Law School. While it may appear that the formation of a body of law governing cosmic space is premature, Dr. Gorove believes "the miraculous, almost daily achievements of science are making it increasingly practical."

Standby gasoline tax gets unfavorable state comments

A large majority of the nation's business people do not like President Carter's proposal for a "standby" gasoline tax, according to nationwide poll conducted recently by the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB).

Through its official publication, Mandate, NFIB polls its 515,000 members every eight weeks on issues of interest to small business. More than 87,000 small businessmen and businesswomen responded to the most recent Mandate poll. Seventy-eight percent said the "standby" tax, with 17 percent favoring it, and five percent undecided.

In the state of Mississippi, the results were 81 percent opposed, 15 percent in favor and 4 percent undecided. The Carter proposal would add a five cents per gallon tax to the cost of gasoline each year that gasoline use rose above a certain federally-designated level. If gasoline use stayed under the designated level for any year, the tax would drop five cents a gallon.

NFIB members also expressed their opposition to the Department of Transportation's proposal to convert all road signs to metric units by 1982. The vote on that issue was 75 percent opposed, 19 percent in favor, and six percent undecided.

On three other issues, the respondents were fairly evenly divided. Asked whether they felt that highway construction money should be withheld from states that do not enforce the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit, 48 percent said they were opposed, 48 percent were in favor, and four percent were undecided. Fifty percent of those responding said they were opposed to forcing manufacturers of large appliances such as freezers and air conditioners to meet federal standards for efficient energy use. Forty-six percent said they were in favor, and four percent were undecided.

To protect the nation against another Middle East oil embargo, the federal government has set aside a five months' supply of oil, known as a "Strategic Reserve." President Carter proposes expanding the "Strategic Reserve" to a 10-months' supply. Forty-eight percent of NFIB members said they were opposed to the idea, 48 percent were in favor, and nine percent were undecided.

Centuries ago, English mothers wrapped their babies' bottoms in napkins. That's why to this day the English refer to diapers as "nappies."

You have made several references to political ads in newspapers. Isn't it true, however, that most people get their information on TV? A Regular Viewer.

Dear ARV: Not according to the TV people. The Television Information office had the Roper Organization find out about political communications. Results they found were: "Newspapers are the primary source of information about candidates running in local elections. 44% of the respondents turn to newspapers, while 34% said TV was their source."

Why are all the clever advertisers using TV today? You never see VW or Alfa-Seltzer in the newspapers. Wondering.

Dear W: The clever ones may stay with TV, but the smart ones, including those you mention are getting in the newspapers. Alfa-Seltzer has an upcoming seasonal promotion built around

MEAT TENDERIZING

Tenderizing of beef is being done all the way from research in breeding and feeding animals, to methods of preparation and cooking these days.

Less tender cuts of meat are as nutritious as the more tender, more expensive cuts. So, if your goal is to get the most nutritious for your money, try the less tender cuts.

There are several ways that you can tenderize meat. Long, slow cooking in moist heat has been the traditional. Grinding, or pounding meat are two mechanical means of tenderizing.

If you must cook meals quickly, or you like to use dry heat methods of cooking, such as broiling or roasting, then you could try commercial tenderizers.

Granular tenderizers, abundant on the grocery shelf, are made from natural enzymes of papaya plants, pineapples, or figs. Papain from the papaya plant, is the one most commonly used. The enzyme is sprinkled on the surface of the meat, and then the meat is pounded or punched with holes so the tenderizer can penetrate. One of the disadvantages of using this type of tenderizer is that it's difficult to get the meat evenly tenderized. Too much tenderizer can also make the meat "mushy." So when you're using a tenderizer of this type, read and follow label instructions carefully.

A newer method of tenderizing meat, and perhaps the best, is to inject the live animal with the enzyme, papain, a few minutes before it is slaughtered. The enzyme travels through the circulatory system to all parts of the body and helps tenderize all cuts of meat.

Beef tenderized in this manner is sold under the trademark ProTen beef. When the meat is cooked, the tenderizing action takes place when it reaches cooking temperature. Less tender roasts and steaks from ProTen beef are now more tender and many of them can be successfully cooked by dry heat methods, such as roasting, broiling, grilling, or pan-frying. When using ProTen beef, cooking times are shortened. If overcooked, however, meat can change texture and taste soft or mushy. Pre-packaged cuts of ProTen beef have small colorful labels placed on them designating them as ProTen beef. The carcass of ProTen beef is marked in red instead of blue, and carries the wording "ProTen, Tenderized with Papain." The cost per

VA news

Add to your list of government help available to students a $85 per month allowance for a tutor if you are a student under the GI Bill or VA's Dependents Educational Assistance Program in need of tutorial assistance.

The only requirements, according to Marilyn J. Cook, Assistant VA Center Director for Regional Office, are that you be studying at the post-secondary level on at least a half-time basis under one of the VA programs and have a deficiency in a subject required in an approved program of education.

Cook said that VA will pay up to $780 for required tutoring, and it isn't chargeable to GI Bill entitlement.

Getting help for course deficiencies is especially important now, he pointed out. A recent amendment to the GI Bill requires that VA retroactively cancel assistance payments for a course dropped without a grade. This applies also when a course is completed but the grade assigned is, in effect, ignored by the school for graduation requirements.

Application for tutoring reimbursement should be made to the VA regional office where your records are maintained. You must apply within a year of the time you got the tutoring, and your application must be certified by the school and the tutor.

The Sea Coast Echo

"THE VOICE OF THE SOUTHWEST MISSISSIPPI GULF COAST"
Bay St. Louis - Waveland - Diamondhead - Pass Christian - Long Beach
SEA COAST ECHO-AUGUST 11, 1977-1B

4-H TEEN WORKSHOP - Some 67 4-H'ers from 21 Southeast District counties received special instructions during a Teen Leader-Marine Education Workshop at the University of Southern Mississippi at Long Beach Aug. 1-3. The workshop, which was conducted by the 4-H Youth Development and Sea Grant Advisory Services departments of the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, featured courses in teen leadership and various marine resources and their use and conservation. George Mason, (R), Sea Grant Advisory Services, Biloxi, gives instruction on checking for marine life present in the Mississippi Sound to, (L-R) Bill Goodwin, 4-H Youth Agent; Wanda Napier; Ladette Ladner; Kim Ladner and Carlos Cuevas.

NOAA weather radio receives commission

Over two years of cooperation and planning by State and Federal Officials culminated recently when the National Weather Service in Jackson activated the second Statewide Weather Radio System in the Deep South. The Weather Radio provides continuous around-the-clock broadcasts of the latest weather information directly from the National Weather Service Offices. Taped weather messages are repeated every four to six minutes and are routinely revised every two to three hours, and more often if necessary. During the severe weather, the Weather Service will interrupt the routine weather broadcast and substitute special severe weather or warning messages. Also, special receivers, which are available to the general public, can be activated. These receivers remain silent until a special warning tone is broadcast, then the receiver will turn itself on or activate a siren Alarm to Warn of impending dangerous weather.

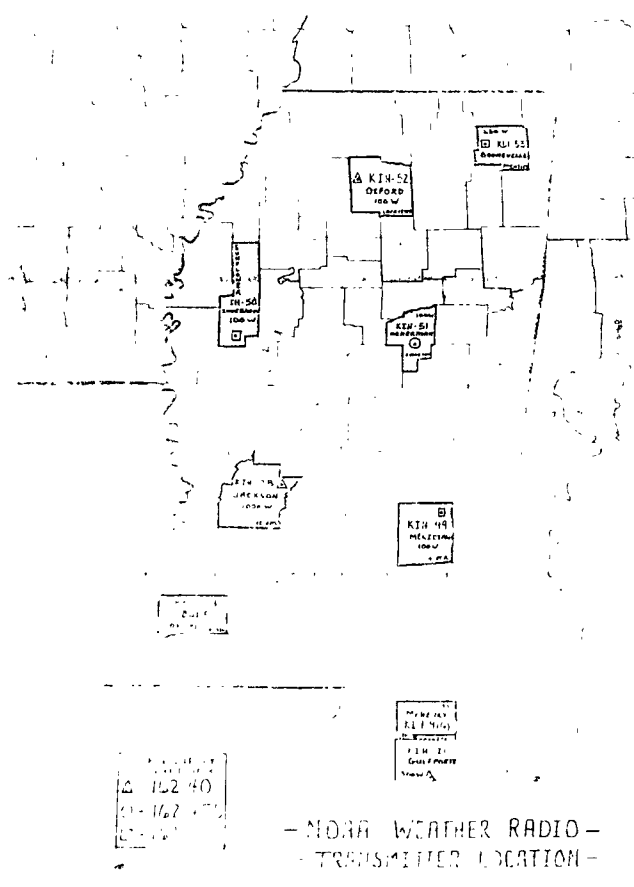

Plans for the statewide system in Mississippi came together shortly after a killer tornado struck McComb in January of 1975. In April of 1976, the Mississippi Legislature provided to the Civil Defense Council 25 thousand dollars for the purchase and installation of radio transmitters and the first station went on the air at Jackson in May 1976. Seven additional stations began going on the air in late Spring of this year and the system became fully operational on August 1st.

Presently plans are being made for backup transmitters and emergency power plants for the seven out-lying transmitters. The Weather Service is to supply the backup transmitters and the State Civil Defense Council is coordinating the acquisition of emergency generators.

The weather broadcast can be received by any of several types of radio receivers...from the inexpensive public service band receiver to the more expensive automatic alarm type receiver. The price range includes receivers for less than $10 to more than $100 dollars.

Mississippi statewide Weather Radio service is a cooperative venture drawing on numerous state agencies as well as the National Weather Service and private groups...including...The Delta Council...the State Legislature...The Farm Bureau...The Mississippi Association of Super-Visors...the Mississippi Authority for Educational Television...The Mississippi Civil Defense Council...the Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics...and Mississippi State University.

4-H EXHIBITS

An exhibit is nothing more than advertisement of a club program or some important idea. It usually involves showing, telling, teaching or selling. The exhibit as a whole should be designed to make a visual impression on everyone who sees it, but it should do more. An exhibit is an impression of an idea and should arouse interest, stimulate thought, and cause action. It is difficult to measure the educational value of an exhibit, but their success in business indicates that an exhibit can be an effective communication tool. It can be presented to the viewer for enjoyment, instruction or as a motivational device to stimulate action or thought on his part. From the exhibitor's viewpoint exhibits are one of the most effective means of stimulating interest in objectives and ideas. They often communicate with people who cannot be approached otherwise.

The club exhibit shows the accumulated results of the club's work and gives an opportunity for comparison and improvement as well as for new ideas. Recent exhibits or projects have done much to broaden the activities of young people.

Plans to make an exhibit add incentive for club members to excel in their work. Since young people enjoy having their work displayed, exhibits add to their pleasure in 4-H club work. Club members may exhibit their work at club meetings, have its quality judged and make ready for the final exhibit at the community, county, state and national levels.

An important activity is coming up soon in Hancock County. The dates of our Annual County Fair and Livestock Show is Sept. 19-24. This event gives youth many opportunities for displaying their exhibits. Catalogues are available at your County Extension Service. Call 467-3456 for more information.

When completed, Korczak Ziolkowski's sculpture of Chief Crazy Horse will measure 641 feet in length and 563 feet from top to bottom.

Forests For Good Hunting

That's what International Paper Company's well-managed forests provide in addition to crops of trees.

We are very much interested in the future of wildlife and are aware of the recreational value you place on these lands.

At IP, our forest management practices include comprehensive wildlife management programs greatly benefitting the outdoor sportsman and hunter.

To provide a variety of good hunting by the public, some of our acreage is leased to state game and fish commissions which are charged with the responsibility of administration and wildlife management activities in the interest of public hunting. Some other areas are leased specifically to hunting and fishing clubs. In addition, we have company game management areas, which require special hunting permits.

Hunters who frequent our fee hunting areas can well appreciate the nominal charge and the benefit derived from well-protected and well-managed forests.

IP foresters and wildlife specialists utilize modern forest management techniques in our forests to provide wildlife with an abundance of food, adequate cover protection and a variety of accessible habitat. Timber cutting practices and prescribed burning are carried out to the maximum benefit of the growing of both timber and wildlife.

We want hunting to be a good thing on our lands.

For additional information concerning hunting and recreation on company lands write:

Who will reign supreme?

By MIKE CUEVAS

Who will reign supreme during "A Fate Worse Than Death; or Adrift on Life's Sea?" Will that scoundrel Casius Carstairs and his confederate, Colde Joe or our clean living hero Burgess Lundahand assisted by that able detective Slick Carter triumph?

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre presents Classic Comedy Capers featuring the three act melodrama August 12 and 13 at the playhouse on Boardman Avenue to raise the needed funds for theatre repairs.

The evening of entertainment begins at 8 p.m. and will feature between act entertainment, free popcorn, a saloon, and roving photographer for moments of the evening.

Members of the theatre have worked diligently to present an evening of laughs reminiscent of vaudeville and early theatre for the entire family. For children who have never seen live theatre, the evening is perfect for their introduction, whereas adults will be delighted with the more subtle humor. It's an evening to really let yourself go - boo and hiss the villain, cheer the hero, and applaud to your hearts content, and laugh until your sides split.

Members of the cast, directed by Laurie Keiffer Byrd, include Louis Burghard, Kay de la Rugera, Vic Frankiewicz, Jr., Pam Griffin, Mike Hamm, Renee Bourgeois, Kristan Frankiewicz, Sam Cuevas, Kathy Koch, Hansel Baxter, Lynn Stechmann and Max Berns.

Buccaneer Crew Notes

Saturday morning a good old fashioned baseball game on the beach began a fun filled weekend at Buccaneer. About 25 campers, young and old alike, gathered on the warm sand to enjoy the sport.

Later in the day the 12 to 18-year-olds had a chance to show their skill in the pinball tournament in the Rec. Hall. Tommy Ayman, 7, of Metairie emerged the overall winner. Saturday night offered a ping pong tournament for two different age groups. In the 15 and under division, Kevin Terrell, 14, of La Place was the champ. In the 16 and over division, Don Fayard, 18, of Waveland took top honors.

Sunday morning got off to an energetic start with a volleyball game behind the Rec. Hall. Neither heat nor early hours stopped the more than two dozen participants from a spirited game. Sunday afternoon gave all the younger campers a chance to prove their survival skills. A scavenger hunt was scheduled, and Janet Tala, 10, of New Orleans was the winner in the search.

Don't forget the fishing rodeo on August 20th. Registration will start at 6 a.m. at Pavilion No. 3. Bring registration blanks to the rodeo site before starting to fish. Additional blanks will also be available at the rodeo site for those who need them. There will be no charge for entry in the competition.

PORTRAYING THE ARISTOCRATIC Ramsgate family are (standing) Max Berns, Renee Bourgeois and Kristan Frankiewicz (seated).

Child abuse hot line will open

In a press conference today, State Welfare Commissioner F.W. St. Clair announced that Mississippi's Child Abuse Hot Line will begin operation on Monday, August 15, 1977.

The statewide toll-free line will operate 24 hours a day, seven days a week, including holidays.

Any person who suspects a child is being abused or neglected can call 1-800-222-8000, and give specific, identifying information. "Hearsay" reports cannot be accepted.

By law, any person who has first hand knowledge of an abused or neglected child, is mandated to report his suspicions. The reporting party is encouraged, but not required to identify himself. When a call is placed through the Hotline, trained operators will take the information and refer it to the proper agency.

Also present at today's conference were representative Wes McIngvale of Batesville, author of the bill creating the Child Abuse Hot Line, and Mrs. Adine Mathews, social work program administrator for the State Department of Public Welfare.

Mystery and romance of out-of-the way places

By S. G. THIGPEN

There are many beauty spots and interesting places right around us in this part of the country just waiting to be discovered by those who like to get off the main roads and follow fancy's bidding.

You don't have to get in your car and take a long, tiring, and expensive trip or fly around the world on a plane to find scenic beauty, rustic charm or intriguing mystery - just travel the infrequently used and lonely roads and trails that lead to almost hidden places and explore your own community, your own country and surrounding areas. Leisurely travel like this can become a highly interesting adventure.

Pearl River and Hancock counties, Honey Island and St. Tammany Parish are rich in history with many unusual and historic spots; also they are rich in nature's blessings with many streams of unrivalled beauty and a great profusion of many varieties of trees and semi-tropical growth.

On a trip of discovery a number of years ago, I turned off what is now Highway 43 North (known in history for many years as the Gainesville to Columbia road and the super highway of this area in the 1800s) onto the old Pool Bluff road at the old Baptist Church at Henleyfield. About a mile over on this old road I noted the traveled woods road to my right. (A woods road is one that has not been graded or prepared for heavy travel). I turned onto this rustic road. After going only a short distance, I came to a ravine. I could hear the water splashing as in a tiny waterfall. I saw across the ravine a high bluff. I got out of my car and walked over and climbed up to this high elevation. Before my eyes looking to the west from my mountain like view, I saw the city of Bogalusa down below me across Pearl River. I have gone back several times over the years to see this most rare and interesting scene.

The old Pool Bluff road was the first access road to cross Pearl River back in the old days, but is now abandoned.

Old Center, first county seat of Hancock County and famous Indian town 200 years ago, deserves more recognition in our local history than has been accorded it by the people of this area. Old Center located 11 miles east of Poycune between Catahoula Creek and Playground Branch about 1 mile east of present Caesar church. The site of this old Indian town was on a turtleback like area gently sloping on the east to Catahoula Creek and on the west to Playground Branch coming to a V point where the two streams come together. It is an ideal town location, high, dry, gently rolling, well drained. The first Hancock County Courthouse was established there in 1817 on the hammock like almost level land to the south of the present habitations. The Indian homes were on the wider part of the old town and the playground, famous in its day, still a little further to the north.

A group of Boy Scouts from New Orleans camped on the site of the old courthouse and county seat for many weeks a few summers ago. They surveyed, cleaned up and outlined the courthouse location, the dungeon and a few of the old homesites. I have not been there since the boy scouts established the exact location, but many years ago, approximately 45 years ago, Mr. J. A. Bilbo, who owned the land there back then, went over the property and showed me where old chimneys had been, where the dungeon was and where the old courthouse stood. To go there now one has to walk down through an old field, as there is no road into it. A visitor to this old town site cannot help but be impressed with the wisdom with which the Indians selected this site as their headquarters town in this whole area, hundreds of years ago. The place is now grown up in trees but there still is a distinctive air of feeling that history was made on this spot. Besides being the county seat and center for a big area of South Mississippi Jackson's artillery division of his army on the way to New Orleans in the fall of 1814 camped there for several weeks. The old ovens dug into the firm clay soil to provide food for Jackson's soldiers can still be seen.

The Devil's Backbone, a ravine or gorge located along the Pearl River County - Marion line just back from Pearl River is a phenomenon without parallel anywhere else within 100 miles of the Gulf Coast so far as I know. It is just off Highway 43 to the east. While I visited it several times years ago, I do not know its depth or width, but I have stood on the south side at probably the highest point, and looked down on the tops of large trees. It is wide, very deep and filled with trees and other vegetation. I'd guess it to be a mile or more long with clear, fast running small stream along its bottom which flows on into Pearl River. I have visited the place several times and looked on with wonder and awe at the Devil's Backbone as it is called. I think it would be a wonderful place for a state park.

It would offer something not found anywhere else in all South Mississippi. Also, there is a high scenic bluff on Pearl River nearby with a great view across the wide swamp off the paved road.

There are other places of great interest in this area: Byrd's Chapel, the county seat of Pearl County during its short existence; Henleyfield, names for Jeremiah Henley who was a great friend of the French during their rule of this area and who fought in the French Foreign Legion on Napoleon's march to Moscow and who because of his friendship and loyalty to the French was granted a section of land on Pearl River and another tract embracing where the old Henleyfield church now stands. The spring of clear cool water that made Henley select his home site there still flows copiously at the foot of the hill from the old home site. Other places worth visiting are: Rotten Bayou and Jordan River, the two most beautiful streams I've ever seen; the old community of about seven families who live on the Hobolochitto Creek east of McNeil, now long since deserted and only signs to show habitations were once there; Mint Head, east of McNeil, the location of the Copeland Gang's mint where they made the bogus money they spent on trips to as far away as Texas and Indiana, always running their pursuers when they were found out. Old Gainesville on the high bluff on Pearl River is Hancock County and now part of the big NASA reservation was at one time the biggest and most important town over a wide area with many businesses there, at least three hotels, two different newspapers, county seat of Hancock County for many years, the telegraph lines in this area ran through there. Other interesting locations are the estate of Theodore G. Bilbo, U.S. Senator and twice Governor of Miss.; Honey Island between the two rivers, back in the old days haven for pirates, murderers, law breakers, during the civil War, refuge for many families. There are many more but space does not allow me to detail.

Just recently, I drove over old Highway 11 through Honey Island. The swamp land timber has so encroached on this formerly much traveled highway until now the greenery of the trees form a mile long bower that almost completely shades the old road. I have seen nothing else like it.

Yes, along the streams and roads, in the rolling woodlands and the stock farms with thousands of cattle on them there is everywhere beauty and scenic grandeur.

No, you don't have to get into your car and take a long, tiresome, and expensive trip to find rustic beauty, recreation, restful places, quiet solitude, you can find this and more right here near home.

As for me, no foreign land, or much advertised tour has the allure or the attraction that this section here embracing Pearl River and Hancock Counties, Honey Island and St. Tammany Parish.

We tend to magnify the attraction and importance of far away places and to not appreciate the many more important assets of our own.

County Agent's report

By John Smith

SOIL TEST NOW

Pasture or row cropland to be planted this fall should be soil tested now to determine lime and fertilizer needs. A representative sample from each field will mean an accurate recommendation from the Extension Service's Soil Testing Laboratory. The recommendation cannot be sound if it is based on a poor sample. Soil testing can take the guesswork out of lime and fertilizer programs.

Good places to spread lime are pastures and cropland now planted to crops. Pastures, for instance, can be limed without worrying about trucks bogging down. Areas to be followed for winter grazing should have lime spread before or between diskings. Lime is a farmer's blue chip investment when applied as needed.

HAY HARVEST

Hay will definitely be in short supply this fall and winter because we have already missed the largest hay cutting season because of dry weather. During the dry weather, much of the grass has already produced seed and has matured much earlier than normal.

Even so, it is advisable to go ahead and harvest the hay even though yields will be low from plants that have already matured. Cutting now and salvaging what hay there is will allow the regrowth to produce more yield that will be higher in quality.

An application of nitrogen could also help out the hay situation this year. Even if you applied nitrogen two months ago, it probably is gone now. If it has been as long as six weeks since you applied fertilizer and you need to produce more hay, an additional application of 150 pounds of urea or 200 pounds of ammonium nitrate per acre could be the difference in two tons of hay per acre. This is a good return on anyone's money.

PASTURE MANAGEMENT CRITICAL

The management practices applied at this time to our pastures often determine the availability of adequate forage in the late summer and early fall according to John W.

Smith, County Agent.

The dry spring and early summer has most pastures grazed very short and very weedy. Tall dogfennel (cypressweed), bitterweed, horsenettle, goatweed and smartweed are growing fast since the showers started. These weeds must be controlled if adequate grazing and hay is produced between now and frost. You cannot afford to apply nitrogen at presents costs to weedy pastures. Clipping the pasture will help by reducing the shading of the desirable plants, but the weeds still provide competition for moisture, light and nutrients. To produce the needed forage, the weeds must be controlled with a herbicide. Allow recently clipped weeds to regrow several days then spray with amine 2,4-D at 1 qt. (1 lb.) per acre or weedicide (Banvel 2,4-D) at 1 1/2 pts. per acre in 10-20 gallons of water.

Where weeds are clipped earlier and there is some question whether to spray because of weed size, apply 1 1/2 pts. of weedicide per acre then clip these weeds 2 weeks after spraying. Removing the herbicide damaged growth will cause these weeds to regrow vigorously, thereby allowing the herbicide still present in the plant to be translocated to this tender growth and kill the weed. Always apply pasture herbicides when there are good growing conditions and no wind to drift spray onto susceptible plants. Using about 20 PSI spray pressure will aid in reducing drift.

It will still pay to apply nitrogen to grass pastures if grazing or hay is needed. Applying 150-200 lbs. of ammonium nitrate (50-60 lbs. nitrogen) per acre will assure a grass reserve for fall grazing. This grass can be utilized as hay or frosted grass. Pasture rotation is a practice that will pay big dividends regardless of the level of fertilization. Concentrating cattle at about 3 head per acre to graze off a pasture in 10 to 14 days then moving to another pasture will increase forage consumption and the regrowth will be of higher quality. Clipping ungrazed clumps of especially bahiagrass following grazing and dragging to spread manure will allow grass to regrow uniformly. This will increase carrying capacity and grass consumption as well as aiding in weed control.

You will not receive the potential forage production from pasture fertilization unless you rotate, control weeds and utilize the forage when it is the highest quality.

Henry Frank Martin, director of placement at Ole Miss, is new president of the Mississippi College Placement Association.
